BEHAVIOR BASED TEAM BUILDING

- Have you identified opportunities for increased productivity in your organization?
- Is it time for the team to improve communications and be more collaborative?
- Are there silos and islands that are visible to the rank and file of the organization?

Franky Johnson,
a certified LIFO®
Trainer, utilizes LIFO as the foundation for Behavior Based
Team Building Intervention.

*LIFO® Training gives us tools to understand our priorities and manage our strengths. It enables us to be more effective in any of the three basic human situations.

-  You Individually
Personal Productivity
-  You With Another Person
Interpersonal Communications
-  You and Others in Groups
Team Building

It begins by identifying the individual's basic orientation to life, or behavior style. Based on this foundation of self-knowledge, it offers powerful strategies that enable individuals and groups to be more successful in their work and more influential when dealing with key people.

Life Orientation® Training ("LIFO® Training" for short) is an applied behavior science system that fosters success for individuals and teams. It improves individual productivity, interpersonal communications, and collaborative teamwork.

To increase productivity, we need to do more than just perform our task more effectively. We need to identify and manage the values that influence our decisions, the goals that motivate us, and the strengths that we use in our work.
